

What threatens the laziness of the student at the university?

help with calculus homework

If a student systematically strives to study at any course, then it should understand what consequences expected him. And life, to put it mildly, sugar will certainly not seem.

1. The teacher can "accurate tooth" on the Lodio, since the fores of the subject is perceived as the disrespect of his teacher. So on the feelings of a specialist is best not to play, and then the mark in the test book will not match the desired.
2. Agnancy. As a rule, students stroll lectures, clearly understanding for themselves that laboratory and independent work will have to donate, but no longer with the group, but individually and in free time. Without their protection to the exam, you can not be admitted, but about the setting of credit and can not be at all.
3. Failure on the exam. Love of the student can entail a man on the exam, but in order not to say goodbye to the university prematurely, you will have to go to relocate. Repeated attempt is already estimated at the score below, that is, the maximum will be 4, and the student requirements are much striking. So do not compete in knowledge with your teacher, it will still be able to prove that you do not know anything according to his subject.
4. Lack of scholarships. If your laziness did not allow to successfully pass the next session, and the middle score came out "below four", then you can say goodbye to half a year with a scholarship, which made it possible to feel at least some financial independence from not always generous and loyal parents. This information relates more to state employees, contracts such financial losses are not terrible, but there is also a nice little.

Why do students quit learning?

5. For state employees there is another danger, because the impressability can be forcedly translated into a paid form of learning. So unambiguously have something to lose.

I hope that I managed to convince you of simple truths: Laine is bad, and the diligent study is good. In addition, it is important to understand that laziness is not a disease, but to get rid of it there is a certain strength of will and desire.

Here the main thing is to take into my hands, remember the reasons for admission to university and parents who will be very unpleasant and ashamed to everyone if you once will be deducted.

So the question is, and it is worth it? Or is it better to podnaping your gyruses, more perfection and desire to get a crust? It is necessary so little, especially since you are not going to study at the university.

Conclusion: I hope that on the pages of our site you found useful information for yourself and now you know exactly how to deal with laziness at the university.